

Investment Policy

The objective of the Sub-Fund is to achieve long term capital growth by gaining exposure to a range of asset classes including equities, fixed income, corporate bonds, real estate, commodities, foreign exchange and alternative strategies through its investments in a diversified portfolio of Eligible collective investment schemes, independently from the performance of the markets. The Sub-Fund will have a high level of diversification and may gain exposure to all types of equities and fixed income asset classes without any restrictions in terms of market capitalization, geographical zones and sectors. The Eligible Collective Investment Schemes selected for investment will be chosen from a range of jurisdictions and will provide exposure to the above-mentioned asset classes globally. It is not intended that the sub-fund will be at any time fully invested in any one asset class mentioned above and the amount invested in any one asset class may vary from time to time.

Commentary

March brought a dramatic escalation in political and economic uncertainty, with equity markets reacting sharply to a flurry of policy shocks out of Washington. President Trump's unexpected imposition of 25% tariffs on Canadian and Mexican exports, alongside further levies on Chinese imports, triggered concerns about global growth and trade disruption. While corporate earnings in the US remained robust—especially in large-cap tech—valuation concerns and tariff anxiety led to market declines, particularly among the previously high-flying “Magnificent Seven.” In contrast, European equities benefited from a more constructive political and fiscal backdrop, with Germany’s new leadership pushing forward pro-growth spending plans. Investor sentiment also began to shift toward broader global equity exposure, weakening the dominance of US megacaps.

Fixed income markets reflected a flight to safety as geopolitical risk and US policy unpredictability surged. US Treasury yields declined in March, reversing earlier moves, as investors sought refuge amid rising fears of recession and political dysfunction surrounding the US debt ceiling. European bonds, however, saw mixed performance as fiscal expansion in Germany pushed yields higher. Emerging market debt continued to benefit from a weaker US dollar and supportive technicals.

Commodities gained traction in March, led by a strong rally in gold as investor anxiety drove safe-haven demand. Energy prices firmed modestly, while industrial metals showed resilience, reflecting optimism around infrastructure spending in Europe.

Over the past month, the portfolio’s Alternative allocation contributed positively to the fund performance, while Blended, Equity and Fixed Income slightly detracted from the performance. The Momentum signal decreased across the equity holdings and remained mainly strong in the Commodity allocation and the majority of the Fixed Income exposures, especially in EM local government bonds.

The top contributors among individual holdings were the L&G Multi-Strategy Enhanced Commodities UCITS ETF, First Trust Emerging Markets AlphaDEX UCITS and the iShares Global Infrastructure UCITS ET. While the leading detractors were the WisdomTree US Efficient Core UCITS ETF, First Trust Cloud Computing UCITS ETF and the First Trust US Large Cap Core AlphaDEX UCITS ETF.

Lower riskHigher risk

The risk indicator assumes you keep the product for 5 years.

The risk can be significantly different if you cash in at an early stage and you may get back less.

The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets or because the Fund is not able to pay you.

We have classified this product as 3 out of 7, which is a medium-low risk class

This rates the potential losses from future performance at a medium-low level. Poor market conditions are unlikely to impact the Fund's capacity to pay you.

Be aware of currency risk. You will receive payments in a different currency, so the final return you will get depend on the exchange rate between the two currencies. This risk is not considered in the indicator shown above.

Please refer to the prospectus for more information on the specific and material risks relevant to the Fund not included in the summary risk indicators.

This Fund does not include any protection from future market performance, so you could lose some or all of your investment. If the Fund is not able to pay you what is owed, you could lose your entire investment.
